

Suburban Youth Symphony Orchestra

The Suburban Youth Symphony Orchestra (SYSO) draws most of its members from the south and southwest suburbs of Chicago.

Your help enriches this program geared toward musically talented youth, and supports public cultural events in the south suburban area. There are two ways you can aid the Orchestra: become a personal subscriber, or purchase a display ad in our program.

When you purchase a display ad, your advertisement will appear in three consecutive concert programs.

If you prefer to become a personal subscriber, you will receive single-line recognition in the next three concert programs.

Thank you in advance. If you have any questions, please contact Leslie Bolin, General Manager, (708) 744-0462.

Our mission: The Suburban Youth Symphony Orchestra is dedicated to providing opportunities for musically promising children and teens: advancing their education and skill level with weekly rehearsals, concert performances and master classes taught by visiting professionals. Under the direction of local leaders in the fields of music performance and education, we strive to develop character in these young people: promoting teamwork, self-discipline, professionalism and responsibility. We are committed to enriching the quality of life for families in our community through our formal concerts, local appearances and outreach events. We embrace the goal of passing the legacy of orchestral and chamber music on to a new generation, ensuring a vibrant cultural resource in our community for many years to come.
